⁹ Major FitzClarence served in the South African war of 1899–1900 on Special Service, and took part in the defence of Mafeking—twice wounded, once severely (mentioned in despatches, F.C., Brevet of Major); was awarded the Victoria Cross for the following service:—"On the 14th October, 1899, Captain FitzClarence went with his squadron of the Protectorate Regiment, consisting of only partially trained men, who had never been in action, to the assistance of an armoured train which had gone out from Mafeking. The enemy were in greatly superior numbers, and the squadron was for a time surrounded, and it looked as if nothing could save them from being shot down. Captain FitzClarence, however, by his personal coolness and courage inspired the greatest confidence in his men, and, by his bold and efficient handling of them, not only succeeded in relieving the armoured train, but inflicted a heavy defeat on the Boers, who lost 50 killed and a large number wounded, his own losses being 2 killed and 15 wounded. The moral effect of this blow had a very important bearing on subsequent encounters."

with the Boers. On the 27th October, 1899, Captain FitzClarence led his squadron from Mafeking across the open, and made a night attack with the bayonet on one of the enemy's trenches. A hand-to-hand fight took place in the trench, while a heavy fire was concentrated on it from the rear. The enemy was driven out with heavy loss. Captain FitzClarence was the first man into the position and accounted for four of the enemy with his sword. The British lost 6 killed and 9 wounded. With reference to these two actions, Major General Baden-Powell states that had this Officer not shown an extraordinary spirit and fearlessness, the attacks would have been failures, and we should have suffered heavy loss both in men and prestige. On the 25th December, 1899, during the action at Game Tree, near Mafeking, Captain FitzClarence again distinguished himself by his coolness and courage, and was again wounded (severely through both legs)."

¹ Colonel Pilcher served in the operations on the Niger in 1897-98, and commanded the expedition to Lapai and Argeyah (mentioned in despatches, Brevet of Lt.Colonel, Medal with Clasp). In August 1898 he received the special thanks of Her Majesty's Government, conveyed through the Colonial Secretary, for services in connection with the raising of the West African Frontier Force. Served in the South African war in 1899-1900 in command of the 3rd Regiment of Mounted Infantry; commanded the expeditions to Sunnyside and Douglas in January 1900; took part in the march to and relief of Kimberley, in the operations at Paardeburg of 25th to 27th February including the surrender of General Cronjé, in the engagements at Poplar Grove and Driefontein, the occupation of Bloemfontein, the engagement at Sanna's Post (mentioned in despatches), the march to Pretoria, the engagement at Diamond Hill, the advance to Balmoral in July and to Rustenburg and Warmbaths in August, and numerous minor engagements (appointed Aide de Camp to Brigadier General Wood during the Zulu war of 1879, and was present in the engagements at Zungu Nek, Zibane Mountain (mentioned in despatches, Victoria Cross), Kambula (again mentioned), and Ulundi (Medal with Clasp); together with Private Edmond Fowler, Scottish Rifles (since discharged), was awarded the VC under the following circumstances:—"On the 28th March 1879, during the assault of the Inhloobane Mountain, Sir Evelyn Wood ordered the dislodgment of certain Zulus (who were causing the troops much loss) from strong natural caves commanding the position in which some of the wounded were lying. Some delay occurring in the execution of the orders issued, Captain the Honourable Ronald Campbell, Coldstream Guards, followed by Lieutenant Lyons, Aide de Camp, and Private Fowler, ran forward in the most determined manner, and advanced over a mass of fallen boulders, and between walls of rock, which led to a cave in which the enemy lay hidden. It being impossible for two men to walk abreast the assailants were consequently obliged to keep in single file, and as Captain Campbell was leading, he arrived first at the mouth of the cave, from which the Zulus were firing, and there met his death; Lieutenant Lyons and Private Fowler, who were following close behind him, immediately dashed at the cave, from which led several subterranean passages, and firing into the chasm below, succeeded in forcing the occupants to forsake their stronghold. Lieutenant Lyons remained at the cave's mouth for some minutes after the attack, during which time Captain Campbell's body was carried down the slopes." Served in the Nile Expedition in 1884-85 with the Egyptian Army (Medal with Clasp, and Khedive's Star).

Advancing with two companies of his regiment, and climbing from one steep ledge to another, he came upon a body of the enemy, strongly posted, and outnumbering his force by about 8 to 1. His men being much exhausted, and immediate action being necessary, Major White took a rifle, and, going on by himself, shot the leader of the enemy. This act so intimidated the rest that they fled round the side of the hill, and the position was won. Again, on the 1st September 1880, at the battle of Candahar, Major White, in leading the final charge, under a heavy fire from the enemy, who held a strong position and were supported by two guns, rode straight up to within a few yards of them, and, seeing the guns, dashed forward and secured one, immediately after which the enemy retired."
